3068 – St. Ives sent supplies to the Taurians to help them against the Word.

10 June, 3069 – Wobblie forces destroyed the factories built on Detroit by the Magistracy and Concordat. A full regiment of Magistracy BattleMechs lost on Detroit, and the Wobblie force split up to march across Magistracy and Taurian space.

3069 – St. Ives seceded from the Capellan Confederation, still untouched by the Wobblie Jihad.

3070 – Wobblie forces smashed into the Marian Hegemony near Circinus, badly mauling the Aquilum Legion. Another force hit Alphard, killing Elena Logan and Caesar Julius O'Reilly. Emperor David Gladding took over the defense of the realm. Magistracy and Concordat in chaos as Wobblie forces moved from system to system, destroying everything that fought them. Wobblie forces moved into Outworlds Alliance.

Wobblie force destroyed. At Canopus IV and Illiushin in Magistracy and Taurian space, heavy concentrations of AeroSpace and BattleMech forces, including the TCW Vandenberg over Illiushin, stopped the Wobblie forces in their realms. Clan Snow Raven moved into the Alliance and stopped the Wobblie force there cold.

15 November, 3078 - Erik Calderon became the Taurian Protector when Janice Calderon stepped down in favor of Jeffrey's son.

23 March, 3079 – Magestrix Emma stepped down in favor of Naomi Centrella.

3079 – Prince George Hasek of New Syrtis tried to get the production of St. Ives the old fashioned way. Conquering armies. The war that followed encompassed every Capellan Rump State and even the Taurian Concordat and Tikonov Free Republic, pushing the Syrtis Federation military to the brink of defeat. Taurians assaulted the Syrtis Federation to draw off the Federation troops from St. Ives.

3080 – Capellans captured Mendham

3082 – Taurians called on the Treaty of the Taurus and Magistracy and Fronc forces spilled over the border to attack the Federation.

3083 – Federation troops moved to fight St. Ives, the Capellans, and the Trinity Alliance. Mendham once again became the center of the war in August 3083 when Trinity Alliance forces arrived to take it in the name of the Taurian Concordat. The Trinity War, fought between the Trinity Alliance, Duchy of Andurien, and Capellan Confederation, began on Mendham between the Trinity Alliance and the Confederation.

Late 3084 – the Trinity Alliance had a stranglehold on the Pleiades Cluster, and had driven deep into Federation space on all fronts but was no longer actively campaigning outside the Pleiades Cluster.

3085 – Tikonov captured in January. Styk took the Chesterton Worlds in February. Pleiades Cluster officially joined the Tauria Concordat with the remaining Federation-controlled worlds seceding en masse. St. Ives War ended late in the year. Duchy of Andurien attacked the Capellan Confederation.

3093 – The fighting for Mendham continued until 3093, when a Trinity Alliance battle squadron, supported by a Raven Alliance squadron, shattered the Capellan Second Fleet and sent its remains running home to Sian. The Raven Alliance reminded the Taurians quietly of the "promoting peace" section of the Treaty of Taurus and said that the war had to end or it would risk badly destabilizing the state of the Inner Sphere. The Trinity Alliance and Duchy of Andurien, as weary of the war as the Capellans were, did not follow up their victory with an assault. Instead they sent in a diplomat, Janice Calderon, to speak with Treyhang Liao and secure peace. On December 3rd, 3093, the Trinity War was over.

3097 – Capellan Confederation invades FWL to show its strength, taking several systems.

St. Ives is an ally of the Taurians, and relations with the Syrtis Federation and the Taurians (and by extension the Trinity Alliance) have entered into a cool détente. Trade flows through the Pleiades Cluster ports into the Alliance and Concordat space.
